

SAILING THE PELOPONNESE PENINSULA

FROM THE GULF OF EVVIA TO CORFU

TREVOR MOREY

Trevor did National Service in the Royal Navy, but thought little more of sailing until near retirement. He and his wife, Lesley, started sailing on holiday flotillas then bought a share in a Mediterranean based boat, before buying their own. They bought their Jeanneau 37.1, Hippocampus, in Greece and sailed the Aegean for 9 years, visiting over 60 Greek islands and the Turkish coast.

Trevor will give an account of their 2015 trip from Khalkoutsie in the Evvian channel, around the Peloponnisos and north through the Ionian Sea to Corfu. During the trip they were delayed in Kalamata whilst the mast was lowered for a new roller-reefing bearing and new standing rigging. Eventually they made their way to Corfu – the final cruise for Hippocampus.
